

Hi 🖐️ My name is Scott Fuoco

Full Stack Web Developer and Team Lead

I enjoy developing websites and applications primarily using React, Next.js, and Express/Fastify backends. I've worked on a variety of projects, from interactive touch-screen displays to large crypto marketplaces that have generated millions of NFTs. Recently, I have had the opportunity to work on a fun AI powered app. The application used AI APIs to build an internal tool that generates demo websites and hosts each one under a subdomain. This was a really interesting project that involved generating content, themes, and layouts, extracting data from documents, ranking images, and more all using various AI tools and APIs.
